In Command of United States Forces

Canada West's First Chief Secretaries Farewell

Colonel and Mrs. Turner Appointed Chief Secretaries to Newly Formed United States Western Territory,

The Commissioner Leads on at Winnipeg

I am writing my notes for the Canada War War Game, the last that was

The eyes of the civilized world, and especially those of Europe, are turned to this continent. They look to it for a solution of many of their problems, and we feel that the Territorial Colonization of The Salvation Army in the United States, and the other changes referred to, are most opportune. Changes have in them inspiration, and are of themselves an incentive to increased endeavor. This being the case, the General's decision cannot but result in a still further extension of the Kingdom of God and The Army.

Brigadier Phillips and Staff-Captain White, the Officers directly responsible for the work in the city, intend to take full advantage of the opportunity presented by these special meetings. As mentioned in a previous issue, we are indebted to Mr. Syd.

Mrs. Commandant Hobbs had received orders to farewell from Vancouver lodge and was preparing for a transfer back to the Old Country. This transfer is now cancelled, and Mrs. Hobbs will be taking a Field appointment in Canada West Territory in the course of a few days.

During the afternoon the Winnipeg I. Young People were favored with a visit from Commissioner and Mrs. Eadie, Colonel and Mrs. Turner, and our Leader's and the Colonel's words were listened to with great attention.

In my humble judgment the secret of Colonel Turner's success as a Salvation Army Officer lies more in his unwavering devotion to the truth as far as it affects his followers than in his love for his people generally. I think that it was not truly any of him, as Abraham Lincoln said of himself, that he was no one who was bound to win, or bound to succeed, but he did as one who was bound to try his manhood.

Speaking of my personal acquaintance of more than a score of years, I have known him a real friend, a true friend, a splendid comrade, and an ideal Salvation Army Officer, worthy to be honored by all and emulated by every Salvationist, especially the young.

W. E. WHITE, Staff-Captain.

THE Young People of the Territory most assuredly owe a debt of gratitude to our far-seeing Chief Secretaries. The Y.P. days conducted by the Colonel were at all times fraught with much blessing and inspiration, and recollections of these seasons of help live today with many of our Young People. The development of an optimistic-attitude and hard work for the object lesson for the young folks of the Territory, and true work to emulate his splendid example. God bless Colonel and Mrs. Turner and prosper them in all their ways, is the prayer of Canada West's Young People.

ERNEST SIMS, Major, Territorial Young People's Secretary.

THE Finance Department has, perhaps, benefited more than any section of the Territorial Headquarters by the close oversight and interest of the Chief Secretary. His appreciation of this interest is very keen and sincere. The Colonel has made a very lasting impression upon the work of the Department, but upon its personnel. His singleness of purpose, forgetfulness of self, and his unselfishness to serve, will always be an inspiration to us.

Others may come and go, but Colonel Turner will ever hold a unique place in our hearts.

S. E. COX, Accountant.

ADJUTANT Dunkley said, "Come," and as we were privileged to be there last year, disguised as War Cry representatives, it took just one tick of the clock to capture us, and then any sauteens to pick? "Yes, right at the Camp." Double incentive. A long, hard winter's ahead.

Ten minutes after the line, and in Charles Jackson's lovely little grove, there nestled the Camp. Jean and the children, off for some time before we arrived the kiddies were on hand to greet us, and instead of two volunteers to pick us up, we were stopped forward to a man, just like a fresh soldier, home, and we were away and back in a short time.

Youngsters' open-air table they gathered for the evening meal, with father and "mother" serving at either end. We sat down to the great alongside, to find heaven as they grew, with every eye closed. It was good to note that the children and training and, bare feet and all, their needs of dress. Better still to sit to the home work. It wasn't long before we were all in bed, and I can't pass those sandwiches and other helpings. And Mary got up all the Marys, and Wilkes, too, till the table was well cleared and goodly rule from the big master, and goodly were through, thanks were rendered, as devoutly as by any grown group.

Then to the "merry-go-round" and

Education, in the Christian sense, is truly everlasting: childhood passes, but the training for God, for age, and the whole life for death and heaven.

Some Striking Tributes

FROM MEMBERS OF THE TERRITORIAL HEADQUARTERS STAFF

AS has been inferred elsewhere, space does not permit us to publish even extracts from the many addresses of appreciation. This being so, we have secured tributes from officers in a representative capacity.

ON this, the eve of the departure of Colonel and Mrs. Turner, we cannot refrain from expressing how much we regret their leaving Canada West. Surely those who know them best can appreciate their services most, and those who have served under them the longest love them most.

Speaking on behalf of the Trade Department, there was no one more deeply interested in it, no one so anxious for, or talked more of, its possible future. The development of an optimistic-attitude and hard work for the object lesson for the young folks of the Territory, and true work to emulate his splendid example. God bless Colonel and Mrs. Turner and prosper them in all their ways, is the prayer of Canada West's Young People.

ERNEST SIMS, Major, Territorial Young People's Secretary.

STAFF-CAPTAIN GOSLING, Trade Secretary.

ONE never thinks of Colonel Turner but they are reminded of a man full of business, who keeps at it from early morning until late at night; having a broad vision, with a capacity to grasp vital things first, and with a keenness of eye, and an optimistic outlook; yet never too engrossed but that he always manages to find time to assist others, both at Headquarters and on the field.

Mrs. Turner has also shown herself to be a well-trained and faithful Officer and a tower of strength to her husband. They will both be greatly missed by their Canadian comrades, but the call has come, and we say "Adieu to God's will, and wish them every success and continued victory in their new fields of labor."

JOHN W. HAY, Brigadier, Special Officers and Candidates Secretary.

NO one acquainted with Salvation Army activities in Canada West during the past five years can help but realize that much credit for the progress made is due to the untiring efforts of the Chief Secretary. The splendid results achieved in the Subscribers' Department are largely the outcome of his initiative, and in his dealing with field affairs he has had the advantage of being able to direct on the spot every emergency. Corps work, which has undoubtedly been a great asset to him, has seen the Colonel and Mrs. Turner go on leaving the impress of whole-hearted, out-and-out Salvationist. God bless them.

L. E. TAYLOR, Head of Field and Subscribers' Depts.

ONE cannot think of the advent of the Training School in Western Canada without associating with it the personality of our departing Chief Secretary. I remember in those days of small beginnings his untiring efforts and the real live interest taken and counsel and advice so unflinchingly given. The Colonel has always been a welcome visitor to the Training School; his lectures were always of the most helpful and instructive character. His coming from the Canadian Field will soon be a matter of history, but the influence of his untiring zeal, his high standards of service, his untiring character, and I am pleased to say this well-earned tribute to him; others will follow, and I believe in the long run his successful Army career. God speed the Colonel.

G. L. PHILLIPS, Brigadier, Principals.

IT was with the deepest sense of regret that I first received the news of the farewell of Colonel and Mrs. Turner. Ever since my coming to the Western Territory, three years ago, and care for his, not in words only, but in deeds. The Colonel, in spite of his being filled with a multitude of other matters, always took time to discuss questions relative either to a Home or its Officers, and I believe the ways tried to do the best possible for us.

Mrs. Turner's practical assistance and cheery smile will be missed at Grace Hospital. Her interest in the League of Mercy was appreciated. We shall miss them, and we wish them every blessing in their new appointments.

NANNIE B. POTTER, Brigadier, Women's Social Secretary.

AS I am taking my departure for my new appointment, I wish to say that the Men's Social Secretary owes a deep debt of gratitude to Colonel and Mrs. Turner. They have been spiritual and temporal welfare of the Officers and employees, he was a freemason, and a very good one. His advice and help have been of immense benefit to the department. We shall always remember both Colonel and Mrs. Turner in our prayers.

W. PEACOCK, Major.

No, no shepherds' crooks, nor pines on duty—there are better things to do: camp to be kept in order, beds made, faces washed, water to carry, music to get, and many other things to do. But, and so very much more. We were outside away, but not before some were already in bed. I hope they were Stevenson's rhyme:

In winter I got up at eight, In summer, I got up at eight; In winter, I got up at eight, In summer, I got up at eight.

One thing we know, there is contentment in the flock, and better, for we saw the Adjutant's close call for the young in our hearts, and for the arms and the smother of many kisses. We teach the children, or do they teach? Honestly, I believe we are their debtors.

Oh, those trunks from home and from heaven. They have made me more man and child, and I know now how Jesus could mean.

Someone has said that childhood is like a mirror, which reflects in after years. I believe it is true. Which is another way of putting Proverbs xix. Children entrusted to the Lord will be a blessing to the world. We want to put the world of all-round teaching for this world or the next.

And now, the end of the summer camp at Calgary. I shall miss the memories of these children, and the goodly day-dream when they are men and women.—H.

Nothing will come nearer to lose control of you more readily than a broken promise. Promise-shedding is a sacred duty, just as a debt must be paid.

† Promoted to Glory

ON Aug. 7, Staff-Captain White conducted the funeral service for Mrs. Jean Wharton, Y.P.S.-M. of the No. 111, Corps, and a large crowd gathered to pay last respects to our departed comrade. Serjeant-Major C. Robson spoke of her faithful work in the Corps and of her untiring service as a Songster.

Adjutant Carter, editor of the War Cry, spoke on behalf of the Y.P.S.-M. of the city. Lieutenant Houghton sang "My Home Is There." The Staff-Captain spoke on the Scripture, "Be ye no more dead."

Captain Fox of No. VII, Corps sang with effect the solo, "Must I Empty-Handed Be?"

As the people viewed the remains for the last time the Band played "Promoted to Glory."

A procession formed up outside the hall and, led by the Band, proceeded to Division Cemetery where another short service was held.

The late Mrs. Jean Wharton was 33 years of age, and was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, where she was a Junior soldier. She came to Canada about eleven years ago, was converted and enrolled as a soldier of the No. 111, Corps in June, 1912. Brother Wharton, the heretofore husband, served overseas with His Majesty's forces.

Recruiting Sergeant Sister Mrs. Facey stated that she had been in intimate terms with Sister Wharton for over six years. What impressed her

MY Dear Comrades, I want to have another word with you about the Young People. You will not easily find of the subject. How interesting the Young People and Juniors are, especially your own children.

Other people are interested in them, too, if you only get to know and care for them. I am sure there is a precious mine of spiritual wealth for The Army in the youngsters if we can only get well at them.

I speak from experience. Have not you all known a precious blessing to be made? But perhaps someone will say, "Oh, yes, but they had no advantage of us." Well, we have no he, had, but their mother and father made those advantages. They should have been made by them.

It was our prayers and teaching and example, especially their mothers, that made them what they are.

Solution of Children Now, my comrades, we must go for the Salvation of the children, and go for it with all our hearts, and give us eyes to see and hearts to feel the importance of the task. Saving the young is not the easiest work in the world, whether they be our children or the children of strangers. But they are worth any amount of toil and tears and prayers and anything else that we can give them for the glory with you in this. The price is beyond any human valuation. Let us fight for it, and give them the best.

We want soldiers, more soldiers, many more soldiers.

We want Officers, more Officers, many more Officers.

We want talent for our business, and for our work in our papers, and for carrying on our affairs. We want men and women.

We want property and money and many other things to help us to bless the world with peace, sinning, suffering world.

How to Go About It

1. But most of all we want just now very hearty and affectionate co-operation in the hearts of the children themselves. Oh, mothers and fathers, endeavor and endeavor to get them from this source if we will only fight for it on God's plan.

most was the Serjeant-Major's brave fighting spirit and joyful life. She had a triumphant death, and a beautiful smile lit up her face as she bade her husband good-bye and said: "I shall see you again, my dear God. Do you realize it?"

On Sunday evening, Aug. 8, a memorial service was conducted by Captain P. S. Ratcliffe. A large crowd of people and also children gathered around the open-air and followed the march as it proceeded slowly to the hall.

Lieutenant Yarrick, Brother Facey and Secretary Mrs. Honey spoke very feelingly of the unvarying service of our departed comrade. The Songsters sang one of our departed comrade's favorite songs, "I Am Walking Every Day with Jesus."

Adjutant Oake, at one time Commanding Officer of No. 111, Corps spoke of the sweet memories he had of the late Sister Wharton. Sister Facey and Captain Facey each spoke.

Captain Ratcliffe gave an address on the Scripture, "Be not afraid; only believe." In speaking of our late comrade, the Captain said that whether Y.P.S.-M. or a Soldier, Soldier, or Company Guard, our sister labored unflinchingly for the Master, and she has most assuredly gone to her reward.

Several of the City Corps were represented at the funeral, and Bandsmen from the different corps of the City assisted the No. 111 Band. May God console the bereaved.—Correspondent.

The Y.P.S.-M. of the Winnipeg III, Corps Is Called Home

Our Founder and the Young People

There are, we are sure, many hundreds of Young People throughout Canada West who have never privileged to hear or come in contact with The Army's Founder, the late General William Booth.

In order that they might know what a deep and affectionate regard which gave expression to this interest. These letters were written by the late General over twenty years ago. Our present General has inherited from his revered father this love for the Young People. Truly, he has them on his heart.

But how is this mighty, this overwhelmingly important work to be done? Let me tell you.

1. There is the Young People's work at the Corps. We want to do it better, ever so much better than it has been done before. We will say nothing more about the failures of the past. We are only beginners. We are going to improve every day.

We want a larger number of earnest Company Guards.

We want more attention to the children of older growth. Oh, what valuable work we could do for the older children by the Young People's Legion if we only had Officers who would take an interest in them. Who might will volunteer?

We want more intelligent teaching. The new Directory will help us. It is so common to see a young man or woman at the Corps, and when they come back, they are so much wiser.

Affectionate Co-operation 1. But most of all we want just now very hearty and affectionate co-operation in the hearts of the children themselves. Oh, mothers and fathers, endeavor and endeavor to get them from this source if we will only fight for it on God's plan.

More Faith Wanted My dear soldiers, will you go to it that your home example follows up when the children are taught in the Company.

2. We want more faith in the past—the good things that have been done, have not too much faith for the Salvation of grown-up people, but as for them, there is no need for a great deal of belief, not only among so-called religious people, but also amongst Salvationists.

3. We want more direct co-operation at home with the work done in the Company. We want to see the interest in the lessons of the Corps. Magnify their importance. Talk to them about the work they are doing, or learned at the Corps. Let them sing their favorite songs and say their little prayers over to you.

Help them to understand the Directory. If any of you should fall short in any of these, ask some comrade to assist you.

Hold On! Hold On!

Not only pray for them—that I am sure you regularly do—but pray with them. To come over to you and for themselves in your presence.

Encourage them by all means to start afresh. Cheer them up with the comrade. To come over to you and for themselves in your presence.

Let them sing their favorite songs and say their little prayers over to you. Help them to understand the Directory. If any of you should fall short in any of these, ask some comrade to assist you.

Salvation Songs

Tunes—Falcon Street, 67; Reuben, 74; Song Book, 615.

Soldiers of Christ, arise,
And put your armor on,
Strong in the strength which God supplies
Through His eternal Son.

Praise ye the Lord, Hallelujah,
Hallelujah, praise ye the Lord!

Strong in the Lord of Hosts,
And in His mighty power,
Who in the strength of Jesus trusts
Is more than conqueror.

Leave no unguarded place,
No weakness of the soul;
Take every virtue, every grace,
And fortify the whole.

That having all things done,
And all your conflicts past,
You may overcome through Christ
Alone, and stand complete at last.

Tune—Oh, Yes, Their Salvation for You.
B.J. 42; Song-Book, 66.
O'er our country, from ocean to ocean,
The Salvation Army you'll see,
Filled with love and a Saviour's devotion,
Everywhere slaves of sin setting
Our meetings make many assemble,
Jesus only we lift up to view,
And we'll shout till we make Satan tremble.

"Sinner, there is Salvation for you."
Oh, yes, there's Salvation for you!
Oh, yes, there's Salvation for you!
For you on the cross Jesus suffered,
Sinner, there is Salvation for you!

We see how that sin's desolation
Now threatens our land to deform;
Oh Jesus, our Rock and Foundation,
There's safety alone from the storm.
With the Blood-and-Fire Flag waving
O'er us.

Though only a tried, faithful few,
In the might of our Captain we'll conquer,
Telling all, "There's Salvation for you!"

The King of Kings

"Our God whom we serve is able to deliver us."
—Daniel 3:17.

The history of God's people is one of repeated stories of deliverance. There was a day, years ago, when the Sultan of Turkey declared that every Christian missionary would be banished on a certain day. The Christians met in earnest prayer, and one said, "The great Sultan of the Universe can change all this." He did. The Sultan of Turkey died on the very day he had named for the banishment of the missionaries, and they were allowed to remain.

the Colonel's career stated, among other things, that it was without doubt an inspiration, particularly to young officers. There were a number of outstanding traits in the Colonel's "make-up." Four of them were Industry, Perseverance, Power of Application, and Tenacity. He was always and still is prepared to do the "drudgery." The Officers with whom the Commissioner was personally acquainted and who had risen "to the top" had all been willing to do so, and all others if they wish to succeed must be prepared to do likewise. Our Leader reminded the Officers that there was no limit to their powers; that there was a line for every one if they would find it and keep strictly to it. The Colonel's career was the exemplification of applied Industry and Perseverance. "It is an inspiration to our faith and vision," continued the Commissioner. Both Colonel and Mrs. Turner expressed their gratitude and exhorted the Officers to stand by the Commissioner and Mrs. Edlie, also their own successors, Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. Morris.

A Country Awakening

Captain and Mrs. Smith and Brother Gordon visited a farm house where there was a woman who had been laid aside for a year and a half. The Captain read from the fifth chapter of James and then all prayed earnestly for God to touch the body. She said she believed that God had healed her, and, praise the Lord, she got up right away. When the party left for home she was in the farmyard to wish them good night, and said she was going to attend the next meeting which the converts were having that evening, and give God the

The secret of this revival was revealed at the last meeting. There was an old saint of God, Sister Mrs. Turner, who had been for a long time praying for God in some way to save the people in that neighborhood. She stood up well blessed and said, "God answers prayer."
